

Custom Illustration:

Nicola loves her rabbits Rab and Eddie and wanted to brighten up their bedroom aka her home office with some cute and colourful rabbit themed illustrations. She came to me with the idea but gave me free reign to create something just for her and her buns. Resulting in a series of three illustrations centered around student life from a rabbit's point of view.

Cute flat, 2D illustrations using a simple, minimal style created using basic shapes and bright colours. Giving a really cute and crisp look with a modern vibe, a great addition to a young student's place for home study.

I also incorporated some fun and lighthearted, punny quotes along the bottom highlighting what her and her fuzzy pals would be up to. Custom illustration isn't just for businesses, but also for individuals who know what they want but can't seem to find it on the high street.

Custom Portrait Commissions:

In the past Nicola has also purchased a Mother's Day portray for her sister and her two young twins.

The overall style is very simple and minimal but using the supplied images small details are picked up on, making it more personal and really transforms the portrait into the recipient!

Client Testimonial:

"I commissioned Lauren to do a custom portrait of my sister and nieces as a Mother's Day gift. Working with her was a fantastic experience and she really took the time to listen to my ideas and ask about my sister and nieces. This effort really shone through in the final product and she created a gorgeous portrait that captured their personalities perfectly! My sister loved the gift, and it's still on display in her house years later!"

I also commissioned Lauren to design a custom set of images to brighten up my home office. Once again, she went over and above to make the perfect artwork for me! After listening to my ideas, she made great suggestions on how to best achieve what I was looking for, and she kept me updated regularly throughout the whole design process. The final artwork was amazing! The fun and colourful style was exactly what I had envisioned and made the perfect addition to my, otherwise dull, office. I love seeing them whilst working and they always make me smile."

- Nicola B